

So, sport has stopped in the short term. What does this mean for clubs?

People are being asked, and potentially compelled to stay at home.

Believe it or not, this is a huge opportunity for clubs and volunteers. With no sport to take our focus, energies and time, the world today provides clubs a rare opportunity to truly think about the future and plan how they will get there.

This break also gives clubs the opportunity to invest in and train their volunteers, especially those key club leaders including Presidents, Secretaries, Treasurers and committee members as well as the next generation of committee members.

Webinars are PERFECT in a time of social distancing!

Webinars are a great way of learning; they ease the boredom of being at home and are perfect way of staying connected in a time of social isolation.

Sports Community have added HEAPS of webinars to our schedule and each has been significantly revised to make them completely relevant to today's strange new world.
